MEYER EXPLAINS HIS PLANS TO POSTMASTERS

Reasons for Cheaper Parcels Post and Postal Savings Bank Stated.

Further advantages to be obtained by the adoption of his plans for the parcel lost and the pestal savings bank were outlined by Postmaster General Meyer today in a speech before the joint meeting of the second, third, and fourth Odd Fellows Hall.

He said that the parcels system now use by the Postoffice Department to pay more for sending packages withcorrection of this injustice. "Necesmasters throughout the States would be Fostmaster General Meyer also spoke favorably of the postal savings bank system, saying that such a system would do an almost unlimited amount of good. The Postmaster General declared that he would use all his included in the proposition was referred to the guard; James H. Trimble, 33d degree, warden.

"I am asking for a reduction of 4 cents a pound in order to equalize the rate. I am also advocating an increase in the weight limit to eleven pounds, because that is the maximum which is allowed to twenty-two foreign countries with which we have parcel post, "In the past the country retail merchant has been opposed to the extension of the parcel post because he felt that it would work to his disadvantage. In my recommendations to Congress for the establishment of a parcel post on rural routes, I have met the objection of the retail merchant and the country storekeeper. The rate which I advocate is 5 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound, or 25 cents for an eleven-pound package. This will enable the farmer and the patron of the rural route to order his supplies by telephone or postal card when it is not feasible for him always to drive to the town. It will increase the consumption and in that way improve the trade of the country merchant.

establishment of such a post will reduce the cost of the rural service by increasing the revenue to the Government, and last, but not least, who also benefits by this? Why, the postmasters of fourth class offices. There were 41,309 postmasters of fourth-class PRESIDENT AND GEN. OLIVER were 41,309 postmasters of fourth-class offices June 30, 1905, receiving $200 or less per annum, and 13,503 postmasters of fourth-class offices receiving $50 or less per annum. The adoption of parcel post would increase their compensation without any further action by Congress especially those postmasters giving rural delivery service.

"Suppose the cancellations of an office should thereby increase 50 cents a day."

"Suppose the cancellations of an office should thereby increase 50 cents a day. On the basis of ninety days this increase would amount to $45 a duarter.

"By largely increasing postal receipts the salaries of postmasters would increase automatically with the parcel post scheme. At the same time the country merchant would have an advantage over the department store, as it would cost the country merchant but 50 cents to deliver an eleven-pound package, while the charge to the mail order house would be $1.32 for a pack-age of the same weight.

Explains Savings Bank.

The object of a postal savings bank will be to bring into the channels of commerce and trade the money that is today being hoarded by a large class of our people in all parts of the country. The great majority of the immigrants who come here are ignorant of our language and are not familiar with cur institutions, but have absolute confidence in the Government. The moneys that they sent abroad last year amounted to about $55,000,000 in money orders alone. Besides these foreigners there are many people who have not the facilities at hand for depositing their savings; such people as are living in out-of-the-way places and in parts of the country where savings banks are not accessible. One-third of the savings banks in the country are located in New England, and that section also contains one-third of the total number of depositors in the country.

'In order to get this money into draulation after it is brought to the post-office, I propose to place it with the national banks in the districts where the money is deposited, that is, in those banks which are Government depositories. The rate of interest which I shall recommend will be'2 per cent, or I per cent semi-annually, thus giving evidence that the Government depositor in the evisting savings banks.

"Every national bank president with whom I have spoken has assured me of his readiness to allow on these special deposits in postal savings banks a rate of 2% and 5 per cent. Consequently, it is plain that in turning this money back in a safe manner into commercial uses we shall be mutually benefiting labor and the industries throughout the land." will be to bring into the channels of commerce and trade the money that is
